When the Dudley will was taken out of the icebox and read to the assembled members of the family, there were at least two shocking surprises. It was not until Disraeli became premier that the queen emerged from Williamston; Mr. Frank Cobb and the shadow of bereavement. He fascinated her by his rhetoric and poetic style of address. Gladstone, she said, used to speak to her as if she was a public meeting, but Disraeli remembered that she was a lonely woman with a hungry heart. He fed this hunger in letters that were almost affectionate in tone. He called her Gloriana and Titania, queen of the fairles, and in a thousand similes ministered to her self-esteem. He waved the magic wand of flattery and

Laws Against Profanity.

Did you know that according to the law of England swearing is an offense for which you may be convicted by a justice of the peace according to a scale of penalties? And the higher up you are in the social scale the higher the fine imposed. A day laborer, common soldier or seaman forfeits one shilling for every oath; every other person under the degree of gentleman two shillings and above the degree of gentleman five shillings. For a second offense it is double the sum, for a third, triple, etc. At any time a constable may arrest a profane swearer and take him before a justice. On one occasion a man lost his temper entirely and swore the same oath twenty times before a justice. The latter counted them and when the man had finally stopped, fined him two shillings for each repetition. There is a similar law in Scotland.

ROTARIANS HEAR GOOD TALK.

The Monday noon luncheons of the Rotary club are always a treat to the members; not so much perhaps from the fact that George is on the job with the eats and Rose and her able staff of cooks get just the right turn to things, but there is always something coming after one has satisfied the inner man. Last Monday it was Dr. Henry Suzzalo, president of the University of Washington, who gave a talk on "Liberalism." In his talk he made a plea for broader and higher sense of fair-mindedness in the policies of the nation. It was a talk that carried conviction in the minds of those present that liberalism when applied as the speaker woold apply it would solve many of the perplexing problems of the day.

ROM a silver-spoon and soft-mattress existence, Stanford Broughton suddenly is confronted with the alternative of looking for a job or, another kind of quest, try and locate a mysterious legacy left him by an eccentric

He does not know the character of the property, but the grandfather's directions say that it is somewhere between the 105th and 110th degrees of longitude west from Greenwich, and the 35th and 40th degrees north latitude.

When he finds it he will be able to identify it by the presence of a girl with brown hair and blue eyes, a small mole on her left shoulder, a piebald horse and a dog with a split face—half black and half white. He is game and he starts to look for the combination. The troubles he has in locating it and the adventures and dangers through which he passes in securing possession of the property, also the romantic incidents in which the girl is a figure, make up this very fascinating narrative.

It is Mr. Lynde's habit to tell stories like this, and there are readers in multitudes who would be sorry to have him depart from the custom.

'Dear Stannie

"I know just about how you felt last week when you heard Grandfather Jasper's will read, and it isn't 7:00 and 9:00 going to make you feel any better now when I tell you that I knew of its provisions more than a year ago. When the will was drawn, grandfather showed it to me, and gave me a sealed envelope, which I was to open after his death. That envelope, as I knew at the time, contained, among other things, a codicil to the will. By its provisions you are to receive a legacy under certain conditions which were to be revealed to you at such time as I might think best.

"Your portion of Grandfather Jasper's property was worth, at its latest valuation, something like $440,000. It lies in a perfectly safe repository, situated between the 105th and 110th degrees of longitude west from Greenwich, and the 35th and 40th degrees north latitude. When you find it, you will be able to identify it by the presence of a girl with brown hair and blue eyes and small mole on her left shoulder, a piebald horse which the girl rides, and a dog with a split face -half black and half white. You will be more than likely to find the three together; and if you make the quaintance of the girl, you'll be on the trail of your legacy.

"So there you are, Stannie, old boy there's your fortune. All you've got to do is to go to work and find it. Perhaps by that time you will have acquired the working habit-which is what Grandfather Jasper hoped might prove to be the case.

"Wishing you great joy in your search, I am, "Your affectionate cousin, "PERCY."

Naturally, I had a quiet little laugh over this screed of Percy's, taking it for a joke; a poor joke and in rather bad taste, I thought. In that mood I handed the letter to Lisette for her to read. She didn't laugh, but she did look a bit scornful and put about, . if you know what I mean.

"I don't suppose the blue-eyed girl would appeal to you," she said, "though the horse and the dog might When do you start?"

We discovered that Meridian 105 west of Greenwich split the state of Colorado just beyond Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo, and the huntingground plotted out for me took in three-fourths of the remainder of the state, a slice of Utah, a good bit bigger slice of New Mexico, with a bite out of the northeastern corner of Arizona. just for good measure.

"Me for the wild and woolly!" brayed. "Don't you see me rigged out in a nice, hairy pair of 'shaps' and riding hell-bent-for-leather-I believe that's the phrase-over the snowcapped peaks or the boundless prairies, as the case may be? But just imagine Percy the immaculate pulling a bonehead joke like this!" "You are taking it for a joke?" she questioned.

"Sure I am; and it's a rather rotten one at that, I should say-considering the source.'

"Then you won't go to look for the blue-eyed girl with nut-brown hair and the cunning little mole? Think of what you may be missing!"

For just one crazy minute I had a hunch, or a premonition, or whatever you like to call it, that the letter might not be a joke. Grandfather Jasper had always been a bit eccentric-a rich man's privilege and a rich old man's incontestable right. What if he had actually done this thing to me?-a thing scarcely less devastating than cutting me off without a penny? On the spur of the moment I said:

"If I should go, would you wait for me, Lisette?"

She took her time about answering -a good and sufficient plenty of it.

"I think perhaps I'd better not change the ring back, Stannie," she said, sort of wintrily. "If there is any money and you should happen to find it, you would probably fling it all ton. Besides, there is the blue-eyed girl; if she should bring you a fortune, you'd have to marry her, wouldn't you? You are big and strong, and-well-er -nice in a good many ways, Stannie, and much too good-looking for your own good; but when you marry-if you do marry-you'd better be sure that the girl has money enough to buy her own hats. I haven't enough, as you know.

"I know only too well that the lovein-a-cottage idea has never appealed to you," I said, with the regretful stop pulled all the way out in deference to the sentimental decencies.

"Not in the least, Stannie, dear; not in the littlest least." This appeared to be the end of our rather lukewarm love-dream, and to be really honest and aboveboard about it, I am obliged to confess that it didn't break as many bones for me as suppose it should have. Anyway, a half-hour or so after I had said goodby to Lisette I met Jack Downing; and when he asked me if I didn't want to go with him and a bunch of the fellows for a little spin down the coast of Maine in his motor cruiser, I fell for the invitation so suddenly that he hadn't a ghost of a chance to back out, if he had wanted to.

So, a few hours beyond that touching little scene at "The Rockerie," you may figure me, if you please, spinning the wheel of one of the nattiest little boats on the North shore, with a fresh nor'easter blowing and the sea getting up to give me the time of my, young, life to hold the Guinevere to her course, nor' nor'east, half a point east, as we lifted the Shoals on our port

In such jolly good company as we had aboard the stout ship Guinevere, three full days elapsed before a thought of Percy or his joke ever entered my head again; and it's a tento-one shot that I wouldn't have thought of him, or it, during the remainder of the cruise if we hadn't been obliged to tie up at Rockland for motor repairs. This, as I recall it, was on the fourth day, and it was a dog that made me remember; a mongrel cur that followed the motor repairman down to the wharf; a most disreputable looking mongrel, at that, but-by Jove! he had the magic markings! Half of his face, measuring from a line drawn straight down over the tip of his nose, was black, and the other half was a dingy, dirty white.

So then I did a little rapid figuring on train schedules. If Percy had left Washington as I knew he was planning to, my diplomatic cousin should have been, at that figuring moment, just about due in San Francisco. That being the case, or the likelihood, I toddled up to the telegraph office and sent a message, addressing it in care of the captain of whatever might be the next steamer due to sail for ports in China All I said was: "Your letter was as funny as an hour in a dentist's chair. Bon voyage to you.

Night found us still tied to the Rockland wharf; and just as we were getting up from dinner in the yacht's saloon, here came a boy with a telegram. The wire was from Percy, and it said: "Don't be a complete fool. It was no joke at all. Ask my lawyer."

Even then, I didn't go off at halfcock, though I have often been called an impulsive jackass. The thing was still too ridiculous to bite very hard. But farther along in the evening, when I got to thinking it over, and more especially when it was shoved in upon me that I really did owe it to Lisette not to turn down even the tenth part of a chance to provide her with the means of buying her future hats, the die was cast, as the play-writers say. I made some sort of a foolish excuse to Jack Downing and the other fellows, caught a night train for Boston, stopped off at the home station long enough to pack a couple of grips and Continued on page four, second

DODGE BROTHERS IMPROVED SEDAN

Disc wheels, cord tires, the latest custom windows and straight sweeping body lines are some of the teatures of Dodge Brothers improved sedan, which is now attracting much attention at the sales-rooms of Joseph Thompson, Dodge Brothers dealer here.

Brothers dealer here.

In this unusually attractive car Dodge Brothers seem to have considered the motorist's every desire in design and in comfort features. Cleanly chiseled body lines, which flow squarely backward from the cowl, strike the observer with their simple beauty. The windows are square-cut in design and further enhance the straight, graceful silhoutte of the body. Considerably lower, the whole ensemble in its outward appearance immediately impresses one with its dignity and harmony of design.

The disc wheels are done in black enamel with cream stripe and hide from view the springs and other underneath parts. The disc wheels may be removed with facility, and are easily cleaned. The brilliant lustre of the sedan's exterior finish familiar to all owners of Dodge Brothers motor cars.

In the interior appointments the sedan leaves little to be desired. Delicately striped mohair velvet is Delicately striped mohair velvet is used in upholstering the wide, commodious rear seat. In front is a deep, wide, solid seat with rounded sides, also trimmed in the striped material. The four doors, which permit easy entrance and exit from any part of the sedan, are upholstered with plain gray mohair velvet in a soft fawn gray. Combined with in a soft fawn gray. Combined with the heavily nickeled handles by which the windows are easily raised or lowered, this adds a richness of tone which can hardly be adequately described.

The windows in the doors and body are garnished with natural black walnut and are of polished plate glass. The body of the car is equipped with Yale locks, affording additional protection against the and insuring the safekeeping of bundles and other articles when shopping. Handy side pockets, arm rests and windshield cleaner are other conveniences of the improved Dodge Brothers sedan.

Other notable refinements are weather strips inside the doors, as an extra protection in unpleasant weather, anti-rattlers on the windows and a body heater connected.

RUTHLESS WORK OF HUNTERS

Lovers of Wild Life Aroused Over the Wholesale Slaughter of Large Antelope Herd.

Indignation has been aroused among those interested in the conservation of wild animals, over the slaughter by hunters of at least half the antelope in a large herd that makes its home in the open country northwest of Swift Current, Saskatchewan.

The herd lived unmolested for years and at its maximum numbered 300 animals. Hunters began to make clandestine raids on the herd last fall and kept up their depredations during the winter. At the opening of spring not more than 150 antelope were left.

Prong-horn antelope, once rivals of the bison in number on the plains of North America, have been almost exterminated. This is one of the few wild herds remaining on the continent. When the Hudson's Bay company was the sovereign power on the prairies the land which is now rapidly selling to farm settlers swarmed with antelope. Now only a few hundreds are left of the hosts.

The antelope of the United States have shared the fate of those of Canada. Except for a few fugitive bands in desert wastes all the wild antelope have disappeared. The greatest herd left on the continent is in Yellowstone park under government protection. Small herds also are flourishing in government parks in Montana and Oklahoma. Antelope are prolific and multiply rapidly under favorable conditions.

The Canadian government has been notified of the decimation of the Swift Current herd by hunters and asked to take immediate steps to save the antelope from extermination.

INSIST ON CLOSED WINDOWS

Antipathy of Europeans to Anything Like Fresh Air Strikes Americans as Astonishing.

The most difficult thing for an American traveling in Europe, outside of England, is to have a window opened in the dining room of a hotel or on a train. I saw an aged French baron at Mentone enter the dining room of a hotel with two valets and a tame waiter who was engaged specially to keep out the slightest draught.

It is pretty warm in the south of France in May and the sun was striking on the glass sides of the dining room, but the baron felt a chill. The waiter went to each window and plugged up imaginary crevices with serviettes and a mallet, but still his patron caffed out at intervals: "Il y a un courant d'air." The two valets at his side fed him with the choicest tidbits from the table, but he was not satisfied. Just before I left the energetic waiter found a keyhole which had not been used for a quarter of a century and plugged it up. When I was at the Krupp factory in Essen in May, the chief engineer took me from one building to another in a fine limousine car belonging to one of the directors. It was a very hot day and I suggested that we might have a window opened. The chief engineer tried them all without success. and then spoke to the chauffeur. He said they had never been opened since the car came from the factory. The director had only had it two years, he added .- New York Times Misunderstood the Doctor. Lawrence, age ten, had been slightly ailing for a few days, but not ill enough to affect his appetite seri-In his mother's absence, the grandmother had been carefully dieting him, much to his annoyance. Finally, in desperation, Lawrence appealed to the family physician for a list of foods he might safely eat. The physician named a long list of light foods, and Lawrence's joy was unbounded. However, the fates were against him and a "horrible conspiracy" was revealed at the next meal, when he learned that the doctor meant that not all of the list, but only a few articles from the list were to be eaten at one meal. He had anticipated a meal consisting of each and everything the doctor had named.

Ice Cream for China.

Thousands of gallons of ice cream are being shipped every month from Vancouver to China, the frozen dainty being forwarded in specially constructed containers holding about 500 gallons each. This fact was brought out in the course of an investigation to discover whether the prohibition era had any effect on the sale of ice cream and soft drinks.

"Far be it from me," I laughed; "nothing so useful as that."

"I didn't know," he hastened to say, half apologetically. "I saw you studying maps as we came along.'

Now, ordinarily I'm apt to talk a lot too much about my own affairs-I'll admit it; but this was one time when I had a sort of hunch not to. So I

Past that, the talk ran mostly upon his profession, and since the mysterious hunch was still nudging me, I let him have the floor, so to speak, figuring chiefly myself as a good listener.

> I laughed. "You made an offer like that to a stranger? and on a mine that you had never seen?"

He grinned good-naturedly and got back at me, quick.

"All business is a taking of chances. As the matter stood at that stage of the game, I had everything to gain and nothing to lose, and the only chance I was taking was in the bet on my own ability as an engineer. The old man was a queer old codger in some respects; as secretive and cautious as an old fox. For example: he had carefully clipped the name of the mine from the blue-prints and other papers, and in all our talk he never once let that name slip, and never even mentioned the name of the district in which the mine was located. But in have no more idea than the man in the spite of all this caution he drew up a sort of option agreement with me.

The time limit was to be a year, and right in the center of the solar plexus each of us was to put up a thousand dollars to make the agreement binding. If either of us should wish to withdraw within that time, he was at liberty to do so by forfeiting his ante of a thousand dollars to the other. If for a lost dog, too." neither of us withdrew by or before the end of the year, I was to be at liberty to go ahead with my drainage project, and the agreement bound the owner to turn over a one-fourth interest in the property to me upon the completion of the job and the unwatering of the mine.

I shook my head. "No; probably not. What was it?"

"It was a bolt from the blue, all right. Mr. Home Lawyer wired that his client had never owned a'share of mining stock in his life, that there was nothing in his papers or records bearing upon the subject of my telegram, "I told him I thought I could do it; and that I must be either drunk or crazy. Of course, he didn't put it just that way in his reply, but that is what

"How do you sort it out?" I inquired. "The lawyer's telegram? I put it up the property. If I didn't succeed, it that my cautious, secretive old gentleman never told anybody at home about his mining investments; kept them in a separate pocket, so to speak. Quite possibly he didn't have any other excepting the one I've been telling you about, and the one he regarded as a dead cock in the pit. That would explain the situation nicely, don't you

The story had left me a bit fogged as to the present state and standing of the thing, and I said so.

"Well, it stacks up about this way," said Brown-beard. "There is a perfectly good mine somewhere west of us that is worth anywhere from a quarter to a half million, and at the present moment it is kicking around without an owner. So far as I can see. I'm the only man on top of earth who has a claim on any part of it. And I moon where it is 'at.' No; I'm afraid my handsome fortune is a tost dog, so
